

'Officer Bill' Program

Learning to Trust Policeman in DC

By NANCY STANCILL

A little girl stood close to Daly City Police Officer Neil Hammermann and managed a shy smile. She was too timid to speak.

The rest of her classmates at Daniel Webster School were not so shy. Hammermann had only to walk across campus to be greeted by squeals of delight.

"It's Officer Bill," one of the youngsters said. He began peppering the tall policeman with questions.

"Bang, Bang," he said, as he pretended to shoot the policeman with an upraised hand.

Hammermann had been on the Daly City elementary school campus for about two minutes before attracting a following of about 25 students.

Hammermann, large and formidable looking in full police regalia, would put fear in the heart of an adult lawbreaker. But most of Daly City's children show him only love and affection.

He walked into the first grade classroom of Mrs. Dorothy L. Baylen and faced an excited group of 20 students.

"How do you do?" he said, rolling his eyes. "My name is Sue."

The class giggled appreciatively.

"Actually, my name is Officer Hammermann," he said in a more serious tone. "But my nickname is Officer Bill."

Hammermann went on to tell the youngsters that when they see a policeman, "The first thing you do is smile, wave and say, 'Hi, Officer Bill.'"

"Policemen are your friends," he said. "They like children."

With that central message delivered to the attentive audience, Hammermann began to give an illustrated lecture with his set of charts.

He pointed to his gun.

"Never, ever play with real guns," he said with emphasis. "They shoot real bullets. They're dangerous. Look at them, but don't touch them."

He blows his whistle.

"Now this whistle will stop all kids, cars, pigs and horses. It will even make airplanes stop," he said, as the class laughed in disbelief. "Pay attention when you hear that whistle."

Next Hammermann, with one quick motion, handcuffs a grinning student to a chair. The class roars in appreciation.

"Handcuffs are for big, bad people," he said.

Then Hammermann launched into a story "about a little girl named Chrissy."

The class went wild as Chrissy, a tiny blonde in jeans, stood beside Hammermann, ducking her head with pride.

Hammermann concluded the story by telling the class to look four ways when they cross the street. He held up five fingers for emphasis.

"No, that's five," the children chorused in protest.

Hammermann held up five fingers again and they laughed loudly.

Hammermann went on to tell the class, using Alphonso and Raymond as his examples, such advice as "Never get into a car with anyone you don't know. Never go anywhere without asking your mom first. Never, never run into the street."

With each story, the children listened attentively and watched with wide eyes as Hammermann strode around the room with exaggerated gestures.

At the end of the lecture, he shook hands gravely with each child and handed out safety coloring books.

"If you ever need help, tell a policeman," he repeated. "He is your friend and he will help you."

As a member of the Police Department's community relations division, Hammermann said he takes the Officer Bill program to every kindergarten through second-grade class in Daly City each year.

He conducts a similar program on bicycle safety for third- and fourth-graders. Fifth- and sixth-graders in the city are treated to police warnings on the dangers of drugs. Hammermann also works with safety patrol for youngsters and coordinates the Block Parent program for adults who watch out for children on school routes.

The programs for children are educational in their messages, but Hammermann said the central theme is for children to learn to trust policemen.

When the 42-year-old Hammermann began the Officer Bill program five years ago, he was unprepared for the response of the children.

"I'll be off-duty, dressed in civilian clothes, in a shopping center, and kids will come up and hug me," he

'Miss Daly City' Pageant Is Thursday

Six young women will vie for the title of Miss Daly City Thursday in a pageant sponsored by the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce.

The contest will take place at a 12 noon luncheon at the Franciscan Mobile Home Park, 700 Hoffman St. Reservations can be obtained through the chamber office.

The winner, to be judged on beauty, poise and personality, will represent Daly City in the countywide Dream Girl Pageant June 30 at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds. The reigning Miss Daly City, Arnella Adams, was chosen first runner-up in the Dream Girl contest.

Competing in the 1978 Miss Daly City competition are Mitzi Marie Barefield, Paula Phyllis Boyer, Jacqueline S. Combs, Cynthia DeVita, Tina Parvin Grasso and Pauline Maria Mack.

Miss Barefield has been a Daly City resident for two years and is 17 years old. Miss Boyer is 20 and has lived in the city for seven years.

Bible Sworn in as Newest Judge

By NANCY STANCILL

A sea of judicial robes and an air of celebration marked the Friday installation ceremonies honoring San Mateo County's newest Superior Court judge, John J. Bible.

Bible, a San Bruno resident and an attorney for the past 15 years, was sworn in by Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn in a 5 p.m. ceremony at Daly City's Civic Center.

Several hundred persons listened as Bible confessed softly that he had "butterflies in my stomach" at the solemnity of the proceedings.

Bible, 54, was appointed to the judge's post recently by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. and assumed his duties May 1.

In a departure from the usual judge's installation ceremony at the Hall of Justice in Redwood City, Bible's law firm of Corey, Henson and Orton of Millbrae chose the Daly City Civic Center as the location for the ceremonies and a lavish champagne reception following the installation.

The audience, which packed the county chambers and spilled out into the City Hall lobby, appeared a little solemn at the unusual sight of 15 Superior Court judges seated at the head of the council chambers.

The phalanx of judges was joined in the audience by Municipal Court judges, retired judges and other representatives of the county's judicial network.

The silver-haired, heavy-set Bible wore a black judicial robe and a serious expression, both of which were softened by a sprig of white flowers pinned at his collar.

Bible thanked the audience for its presence and had a few special words for his wife Barbara,

"someone who pushed and pulled me along."

"I see many clients in the audience," he continued. "I hope you will call on me as a friend, although no longer for legal advice."

"For the attorneys in the audience, I hope I do the right thing," he added.

"God give me the wisdom to dispense justice," he concluded fervently.

The ceremonies, which lasted about 40 minutes, also included words of encouragement to Bible from several elected officials.

Congressman Leo J. Ryan (D-San Mateo) said he viewed the occasion as "a recognition of the continuation of life and justice and the rule of law in the county."

Ryan said he could look at the assembled gathering and "see the entire thread and fabric of the county."

Ryan acknowledged that like all judges, Bible would be "facing terrible decisions at times."

State Sen. John F. Foran (D-San Francisco) remarked that he has known Bible for years.

"It is a wonderful thing that he was appointed," Foran said. "I have respect

Trustee John Sloane's idea of eliminating Blue Cross coverage was dropped almost as quickly as it was raised, after Dr. Harold Tonini, deputy superintendent, warned, "A lot of people in our district prefer to have their own doctors. It would be hard to negotiate Blue Cross out of the contract."

Commented Sloane: "I can understand and respect that. But, I feel frustrated

Victors Spent Most

Heavy campaign spending apparently paid off for the three victors in the March Daly City council elections.

The three biggest spenders — Victor G. Kyriakis, James J. Tucker and William J. Schumacher — won their bids for council seats.

The final campaign statements, filed with City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf Friday, showed Kyriakis spent the most in his campaign for re-election, with total expenditures listed at $13,827.

Kyriakis, however, ran second in the council race

Hearings Slated on Environment Mandate

By JANET PARKER

Congressional hearings long sought by San Mateo County's cities definitely will be held in San Francisco next month to explore the federal environmental clean-up mandates, The Times has learned.

Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, will announce those hearings at a press conference on June 2.

One source said those hearings will begin on June 23, although Ryan's staff is not yet announcing the date.

"There will be hearings just as we said there are going to be," said Ryan's administrative aide, Joe Holsinger. "We've said it all along."

However, the hearings will apparently come as a surprise to some Association of Bay Area Government leaders.

In unveiling the final draft of the Bay Area Environmental Management Plan — the product of a two-year, $4.5 million effort to meet federal standards — Wednesday, prospects of a congressional hearing were brushed aside.

ABAG President Rod Diridon, a Santa Clara County supervisor, said at the showy press conference in San Francisco that Ryan dropped the idea of a congressional hearing a month ago.

The ABAG Executive Board, which Diridon chairs, had also asked for the hearing.

Ryan is the chairman of the House Subcommittee on Environment, Energy and Natural Resources.

Diridon said Ryan has since recognized that the controversial EMP is widely accepted throughout the region due to many changes in the last two months.

Diridon, EMP Task Force Chairwoman Dianne Feinstein and a contingent of labor, industrial and environmental interests now endorsing the plan staged the conference to demonstrate that newly found "widespread" support for the long beleaguered EMP.

The plan will face its final local hurdle on June 10 when it goes to the ABAG General Assembly for approval, rejection or modification. Then, it will be forwarded to state agencies and ultimately the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Diridon said the plan not only complies with federal clean air and water laws but "is a plan that is acceptable to virtually all local government, business, labor and environmental groups."

However, at least one San Mateo County city, Pacifica, will oppose the plan at the final meeting.

Only four of the seven ABAG counties, including San Mateo County, have endorsed the plan.

Holsinger said Diridon has not been in touch with his office and apparently isn't aware of Ryan's commitment.

"Some people at ABAG feel they can bluff it over," Holsinger said.

Diridon, he said, may have been reflecting ABAG's desire to eliminate the controversy that has shrouded the plan.

The congressional hearings, however, will focus primarily on the federal laws that are being tackled by every metropolitan area in the United States, not just the San Francisco Bay Area.

Holsinger wouldn't confirm the June 23 hearing date since the press conference has been scheduled for that purpose.

The latest version of the EMP, released Wednesday, was heralded by ABAG as "a strong weapon for local governments to fight off state and federal sanctions and maintain local controls."

The most controversial measures that drew fire from the start have been removed from the action section of the plan.

Diridon denied that the ABAG Task Force and Executive Board, which have approved the plan with substantial revisions, succumbed to the pressures of industry and business.

He said it was principally the comments of local governments that caused land use controls — which outlined where and how development would occur in the region — to be removed.

There were fears, he said, that any reference to controlling development would allow the state and federal governments to step in and strictly enforce those guidelines.

"We're very paranoid in terms of protecting our local prerogatives," Diridon said.

Mrs. Feinstein, chairwoman of the San Francisco County Board of Supervisors, said land use controls were only a "preliminary proposal" in the early stages of the EMP. They should never have been included in the plan, although they will be reviewed "from time to time," she said.

"This plan was not emulated by the elimination of land use controls," Diridon insisted. "It's just as strong now as it was before land use controls were taken out."

Some ABAG staff members have speculated that the state Air Resources Board will send the plan back to the cities for strengthening.

Mrs. Feinstein said the state agencies "flex their muscles" a lot.

"If the bureaucrats want to impose their will, let's just say it'll be toe to toe," she said.

"As far as we're concerned, we are giving them a compliance plan and they can't change it. They don't have a legal reason to change the plan," Diridon said.

In an attempt to display Bay Area unity, the ABAG leaders were flanked by representatives of the Sierra Club, League of Women Voters, Coalition of Labor and Business, Bay Area Council, California Council for Environmental and Economic Balance, Santa Clara County Manufacturing Group and Operating Engineers Local No. 3.

Asked how the plan will affect Bay Area residents, Diridon said, "You will live longer."

"You and your children have the opportunity to live better. Pollution is unhealthy," he said.

If You Qualify, the County Economic Opportunity Commission May Pay Your Bills

Behind in paying your utility bills? Can't afford to buy a new blanket? Have a broken window or heater? The San Mateo County Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC) will pay such bills for those eligible who apply by 4 p.m. May 19, which is the deadline, it has been announced.

There are qualifications to be met. To get such help an individual must have limited annual income which, depending on the size of the family, may range from $3,925 to over $10,300.

That means people living on Social Security or pensions who have other assets are eligible, because the EOC does not take ownership of a home or other assets into account in granting such aid.

To be eligible, a single person may not have income exceeding $3,925 a year; a couple, $5,200; family of three, $6,475; family of four, $7,750; five, $9,025; six, $10,300; and those with more than six may add $1,275 for each added member of the family.

Under the EEAP program, the commission will help people who can prove their income is within the stated limits, but can't pay their gas and electricity bills or other "energy-related emergency expenses up to a maximum of $250 per household."

The financial aid covers such matters as temporary or emergency repairs to housing, which otherwise would be unfit for habitation; emergency furnace repairs, temporary shelter, temporary loan of space heaters, health and other supportive services, replacement of broken window panes and fuel oil delivery.

The specified income limits may be no higher than 125 percent of the incomes specified as poverty guidelines.

Those who believe they are eligible should contact the EOC staff at the following locations before May 19, 4 p.m.: Martin Luther King Center, 725 Monte Diablo Ave., San Mateo; East Palo Alto Development Center, 1671 Bay Road, East Palo Alto; Lincoln Park Recreation Center, 901 Brunswick Ave., Daly City; Pacifica Information and Referral Center, 1809 Palmetto St.

Additional information about the EOC emergency aid program may be obtained by telephoning Jorge Hassmer, coordinator, at the EOC office located at 702 Marshall St., Suite 220, Redwood City 94063.

School Journalists Receive Awards

Thirty-six of the most talented junior high school journalists in San Mateo County were honored Wednesday at the 12th annual Most Valuable Staffer award luncheon at the Villa Chartier in San Mateo.

The youngsters were chosen by their schools as the most valuable members of the staffs of their school newspapers.

Demo CC Wins Name Battle

The political in-fighting of the San Mateo County Democratic Central Committee resulted Thursday in adoption of a resolution declaring an unofficial committee calling itself "Democrats for a More Effective Central Committee" to be in violation of the Central Committee by-laws and of the state Election Code.

The resolution, adopted by a 15-7 vote at a special meeting of the Central Committee in San Mateo, directs Chairman Richard Silver to request orally and by registered mail that the DFMECC delete the word "Democrats" from its title in that it represents itself as an official Democratic organization.

Also, Silver, one of the organizers of the DFMECC, was told to instruct members of the DFMECC that they must "cease the collection of funds and endorsement of candidates under its present name, and that funds collected to this date by the DFMECC be returned to any candidates from whom they have been solicited."

The resolution noted that the DFMECC "has neither sought nor received charter from the San Mateo County Central Committee, as required under said Central Committee by-laws and as required by state Election Code and as was indicated the committee would do in its application to the secretary of state..."

dealing with a budget that has already been half bargained out of our control. I'm going to yell and holler that there ought to be a less expensive way to provide reasonable coverage to our employees."

On the other hand, Sloane expressed concern over a nearly $33,000 decrease in the conference and convention category, which is only half of this year's allowance.

"With all the changes in curriculum and mandated programs, I am afraid some programs may suffer from the decrease," said Sloane.

Watt explained that this was just one of the areas where cuts were made to try and balance the budget.

"You could always submit a budget that is not in balance, like you did last year," he counseled.

Although Dr. Floyd Gonella, district superintendent, announced plans to hire a replacement for one psychologist on sabbatical leave, he predicted fewer employees in 1978-79 because of attrition.

filed a statement which noted $2,226 in campaign expenses.

Ron Bates, next in the vote totals, spent $825, according to the document he filed with the city clerk's office.

Filing the short forms, which specified that no more than $200 was spent for campaign purposes, were Catherine "Kip" McGrath and O. Edward Salonga. Mrs. McGrath said during the campaign that she would not spend a penny on the election.

In the last of three campaign statements that the state requires candidates to file, Kyriakis noted that he had received $11,685 in contributions and listed loans of $2,250. He listed cash on hand of $108 to offset the loans.

Among Kyriakis' major contributors listed in the last statement were Bay Area Contractors of Daly City with an $800 contribution and Forest Knolls Development of Daly City, which gave $800 to Kyriakis' efforts.

Another business interest which contributed $400 to the Kyriakis drive was Visitation Associates of San Francisco. Plumbers Local 467 of Burlingame contributed another $250.

Schumacher listed monetary contributions of $10,462 during the campaign, as well as $380 in non-monetary contributions. According to his closing statement, he owes $558 in debts.

Major contributors toward the end of the Schumacher campaign included Suburban Realty of Daly City, which contributed $1,000, and Westlake Associates of the city, which gave $200 toward the mayor's effort.

Individual contributors included Frank Spadarella of the city at $200, George Smith at $101 and Edward Bacciocco Sr. and Vera Bacciocco of Sausalito, who gave $200.

Tucker listed $5,649 in monetary contributions and a loan of $1,000. At the campaign's end, he said he owed $201 of the loan.

Major contributions during the latter part of the campaign included $200 from Paul Huff of Daly City and $250 from Robert Pauly. Other city residents contributing $100 or more included George Saeger, George Kirchhabel, Andrew Uccelli and George Smith.

Colma Funds For Youth Fun

Some cities use federal revenue sharing funds for constructing massive buildings or purchasing heavy equipment. Not Colma.

Colma, the tiny city of 500, is going to send children to camp with some of its revenue sharing monies.

According to City Clerk Frances Liston, the city currently has $28,000 to spend in revenue sharing allocations that have piled up over the past two years.

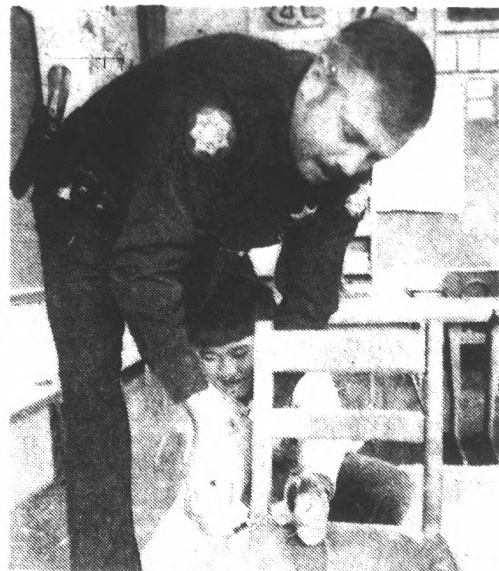

The City Council, which had expressed interest in starting more "people-oriented" programs in the town, voted last week to send any Colma youngster between the ages of 7 and 16 to summer camp for two weeks.

The city will fund a two-week session for each participating child at Caritas Creek Camp in Mendocino County. The cost is $200 per child.

Mrs. Liston is preparing a letter to town residents to inform them of the program. She estimates there are 30 to 40 children in the city between ages 6 and 17.

City Attorney Robert Cornell, who researched the proposal, said the camp project would serve in lieu of a recreation program, which the town does not have.

Mrs. Liston said the city hopes to sign up prospective campers by May 26.

The influence of "Officer Bill" was recognized not too long ago when the Tobias School PTA presented him with an Honorary Service Award.

Hammermann is pleased that when children recognize him, their parents also say hello.

"It breaks down barriers with the parents," he said. "Most people don't get a chance to talk to police except in a crisis situation."

The police officer emphasizes, however, that whatever he puts into the program is amply repaid by the affection of the children.

"It's a trip," he mused. "It really makes me feel good."

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City) joked that the ceremony showed "the North County annexing the South County for the first time."

Bible is the only Superior Court judge currently on the bench who resides north of Burlingame, although nearly half of the county's population is in the North County.

Vernon Vale, president of the San Mateo County Bar Association, said in his 30 years as a member of the bar, "I've seen the bench grow in quantity and quality."

Daly City Mayor William J. Schumacher noted that he was pleased that the city was chosen for a such a special event. City Hall staffers volunteered their time to pour champagne and serve hors d'oeuvres at the reception after the installation.

Bible resides at 2110 Rosewood Drive, San Bruno. He is a Democrat and has never run for political office. He holds degrees in business administration, philosophy and law from the University of San Francisco.

Two Pacifica youths trapped by high tide were rescued by Daly City firemen Saturday afternoon in a rescue operation complicated by two dogs also trapped on the beach.

Firemen said they were alerted about 4:30 p.m. Saturday that the two youths, Hector Pintos, 16, and Larry Proctor, 18, were trapped on the beach in a cove area directly south of Mussel Rock.

A rescue rig was used to drop a cable 250 feet over the side of a cliff to haul the two youths up.

D.C. to Self-Insure

During a whirlwind 29-minute study session Monday in Daly City, the City Council heard a preliminary report which suggests that the city should set up a workers' compensation self-insurance program.

The city has been looking at the concept of self-insurance for workers' compensation and general liability claims for nearly a year.

The City Council agreed to appoint a committee composed of Finance Director Robert Green, City Manager David Rowe, City Attorney Albert Polonsky, and Assistant to the City Manager Ronald Mitchell to meet with the city's insurance broker to review self-insured alternatives.

The city staffers will make a recommendation to the council before the new fiscal year begins July 1, although several councilmen expressed doubt about beginning a self-insurance program before next January.

Mitchell, in his "progress report" to the council, noted that city premiums to the State Compensation Insurance Fund "have been increasing significantly over the last few years."

He said the premium was $295,000 for 1975-76, $443,784 for 1976-77 and is estimated to be $517,000 for 1977-78.

He added that since the state fund operates on a calendar year, the city would have to pay a penalty fee, which he estimated at $50,000, to pull from the fund at the start of the fiscal year.

However, he remarked that it might be cheaper to pay the penalty than to pay a $250,000 six-month premium.

Councilman Victor Kyriakis disagreed.

"I would just as soon wait until January," he said.

Several councilmen remarked that it would be impossible to make a self-insurance decision before the Jarvis-Gann property tax initiative affecting city revenues is decided by voters June 6.

Mitchell, in the report, suggested three alternative five-year programs to be considered for workers' compensation self-insurance, including establishing a $500,000 special fund over a five-year period to cover "significant claims that are within the deductible of $100,000."

A second alternative would establish a $1 million special fund, which would increase the deductible to $200,000. It was pointed out that the alternative would decrease the city's premium for excess insurance coverage.

Mitchell said a third alternative would be for the city to make projected payments equal to the "projected premiums" to a special fund, which would be estimated to be self-sufficient after five years.

Then, the annual contribution of the city would be $450,000 per year to cover annual expenses and claims.

Both Mitchell and Rowe told the council that they would recommend a city-wide program rather than a joint powers arrangement with other San Mateo County cities.

A Congress of Elected Officials' self-insurance task force has recommended that Daly City join Atherton, Belmont, Brisbane, Foster City, Half Moon Bay and Hillsborough in forming a self-insurance pool.

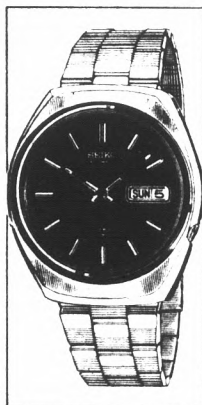

However, Rowe said the city could keep greater control over its funds by conducting a separate program, rather than participating with the smaller cities.

End-of-Year Activities at Westmoor

Ramblings

By STEVE KAUFMAN

This is the time of year at Westmoor High School when various awards are presented to students who have achieved academic excellence. Toward the end of the year Westmoor will hold its annual Awards Assembly. However, several students have earned awards now.

Steve Boides, Westmoor's current student body president, has won the Outstanding Student Award from the Savings and Loan Association of California. A bronze medallion set in marble was presented to him, as well as a check for $100 to be used toward his education.

STEVE attended a dinner May 3 which honored the 24 recipients of this prestigious award. The dinner, sponsored by the Savings and Loan Association, was attended by winners from high schools from Santa Clara to Daly City.

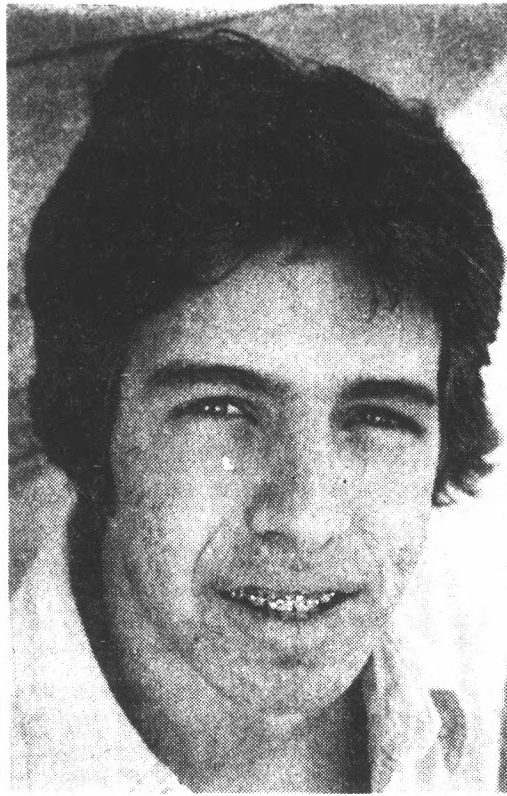

Qualifications for the students were based on his or her achievements in a wide range of fields — academic ability, extra-curricular activity, involvement in school politics, etc. My heartiest congratulations to Steve for representing Westmoor for this fine award.

Congratulations to Jeff Segol, the editor of the school newspaper, the Rampage. He was selected as the most valuable staffer by Amphlett Printing Co., as well as the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. Jeff, currently in Israel, has been the editor-in-chief of the paper since the start of the school year. Under the leadership of advisor Jerry Littrell, Jeff has done an outstanding job with the staff, turning out some of the best issues of the papers in the school history. Congratulations for winning this coveted award.

THE STAFF of the Rampage, whose dedicated work makes the paper as successful as it is, includes Buzz Locke, feature editor; Kiki Verveniotes, sports editor; Tom Hughes, photo editor; and reporters Ken Addad, Debi Anderson, Terri Baccell, Clark Bloom, Len Chiechi, Dan Cinti, Gilbert Cornwell, Erick Dew, Greg Eagleton, Janet Heise, Kim Herbert, Donna Imsand, Maria Marti, Kyran Milton, Marve Milton, Sue Murray, Ken Nolan, Neil Nolan, Vicki Prugh, Julie Sugrue, Kathy Sugrue and photographers Donna Imsand, Kurt Zivas, Dave Inocencio and Jerry Zarate. Thanks for all of your hard work.

Three junior boys, in addition to myself, were chosen for the annual American Legion's Boy's State at California State University, Sacramento. The four students from Westmoor will be at the campus from June 17 to June 24. Boy's State is a laboratory of practical political science in which boys from all over California gather and learn about the political processes of the government through campaigning for offices, elections and the like. Boys run for offices and begin election committees from scratch, much like it is done today.

The four from Westmoor nominated for this post include Ken Ikeda, Don Granera, Ben Murti and myself.

Steve Boides

I am looking forward to this workshop, as are the other boys. Thanks to Mr. Perez, who handled the interviews, and to the principal, Clay Kollmann, who helped in the decision-making process.

ONE SCIENCE teacher at Westmoor, Darold Fredericks, is doing something not seen too often any more. He has been riding his bicycle to school. For the past few weeks he has been pedaling to and from Westmoor and students in his classes have noticed his bike in the back of the classroom. An interesting alternative to his station wagon, his only regret is the trip home. "It's all uphill when I go home," he commented. "However, I still enjoy riding it. It's a nice change." Mr. Fredericks, I commend you on your brave new form of transportation!

The Navy Band was terrific. A good crowd was on hand during both lunches to hear them perform in the Little Theater. This yearly attraction always draws a good crowd, and most seemed to enjoy the performance. Unfortunately, the Army Band, which usually plays a few weeks later, had to cancel its engagement at Westmoor this year. However, we do look forward to its returning next year.

Freshmen students at Westmoor had to take a state-mandated test last week. All areas of this important exam must be passed for that student to be graduated from Westmoor. Hope all did well.

ANY STUDENTS possessing radios, tape recorders or the like are to be reminded that they aren't allowed at school. Also, this rule helps the student avoid the frustration of having it stolen from him or her.

The California Scholarship Federation chapter at Westmoor, in addition to the Youth Elderly Service Club, will go on a field trip to McNear's Beach May 18. It is the annual spring trip for CSF and one of the few times it has teamed up with another club for a joint trip. Hoe all who go have a great time.

Any seniors interested in going into cosmetology, or the art of cutting hair, should check into File 31 in the counselor's hall. Ponce College is offering scholarships to students who qualify.

ELECTIONS for student body offices were in the Little Theater May 15. At the time this column was being written, the winners' names were unavailable, but will be announced soon. These officers will serve in the spring semester of next year.

Any seniors who will attend Canada College for summer school or for the fall semester took the placement test May 13. Best of luck to all.

Any seniors who have bills of any kind through Westmoor are urged to get them paid before graduation. Not only are report cards withheld, but the student will not receive his or her diploma if the bill is not paid. A list of 36 names of students who owe money is posted in Miss Batori's window. She is the registrar, located in the typing hall. Take care of them as soon as possible.

ANY SENIOR who is graduating this year and wished an opportunity to become graduation speaker, signed up with Mrs. Charles in Room 14 before May 15. Best of luck to all who entered the competition.

Westmoor students who have an interest in tennis got a chance to see World Team Tennis in action May 6. Students received a $2 discount on reserved tickets for the match at Oakland Coliseum. Hope all had a good time.

An invitation has been extended to any Westmoor students interested in joining the Daly City Dolphins Swim Club. The team swims at Westmoor Pool from 5 to 7 p.m. daily. Anyone interested should contact the Daly City Recreation Department at 992-5356 or Club President Mrs. DeMartini at 992-1486.

Congratulations to Chip Hansel, a sophomore at Westmoor. He single-handedly is working on a project for Boy Scouts to set up a special blood reserve for Scouts (boys and girls) and Scouters (adults) for those in need. The donors must be between the ages of 18 and 66, and in good physical health. The drive will be May 20 at the Daly City Civic Center. If interested, call Chip at 992-7289. Westmoor salutes you for your hard work.

SPORTS — Westmoor's frosh-soph teams are doing an outstanding job this season. Westmoor's frosh-soph track team won the NPL crown after a tremendous season of hard work. They beat all stiff competition and came up tops. Among the outstanding individuals on the team were Paco Torres, Troy Williams, Keith Dowdell, Rick Sanchez, Henry Hall, Ed Bruno, Pete Garcia, Paul Sangervasi, Maurice Howard, Tom Garcia and Pete Zarate. Congratulations for a good season.

On the varsity level, the track team took third place, finishing the season with a 5-2 record. Although the team didn't capture the crown, many of its athletes did well at the NPL Trials and Finals. Some of the outstanding athletes on the team included Art Schembri, Bob Koplowitz (who set a record in the triple jump), Don Piiwas, Rolf Apostolos, Marc Biagini, George Anwar, Pete Pattis, Paul Edwison, Kurt Larcher and Steve Schneider. Thanks for your hard work, and best of luck next season.

Football practice for both frosh-soph and varsity will convene August 29 at 10 a.m. Good luck to all who try out.

Frosh-soph baseball finished the season with an impressive 10-3-1 record.

WESTMOOR'S varsity baseball team, at the time this column was being written, was playing Oceana for the fourth playoff position. Under the able coaching of Rodney Losburger, the team has done fine all season. The outstanding players include Rich Baxley, catcher Greg Eagleton, outfielder Tom Bonomi and shortstop Dave Maxion. Congratulations for a successful season and I hope the big game goes well!

Any girls interested in playing either varsity or frosh-soph basketball should pick up the forms from Ms. Wright in the girls gym.

Sincere congratulations to the freshman whiz in swimming, Brett Beedle. He qualified in the top 14 in the Central Coastal Sectionals at Stanford pool May 5. He finished 14th with a time of 1:06.887. He also entered the competition in the 100 individual medley. Brett was one of the key elements in the swim team's success this season. Good work.

Anna Parraga Is Specialist

An official at Sheppard AFB, Tex., has announced the graduation of Airman Anna C. Parraga from the U.S. Air Force's passenger and household goods specialist course by the Air Training Command.

Parraga, daughter of Mrs. Aracely Parraga, 415 Northaven Dr., Daly City, is trained to plan and arrange air, rail, water and bus transportation for armed forces and Department of Defense personnel and their dependents, and will serve at Mountain Home AFB, Ida. The airman, a 1976 graduate of Westmoor High School, attended Skyline College.

Electricians School Ends

Navy Interior Communications Electrician Third Class John H. Babin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert C. Babin, 134 Edgemont Drive, Daly City, was graduated from the Basic Interior Communications School.

During the 16-week course at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, students received instruction on the skills and technical requirements to operate and maintain switchboards and ships' communications systems. They also studied electrical circuitry testing equipment and the use of wiring diagrams. A 1977 graduate of Westmoor High School, he joined the Navy in 1977.

Radioman Graduates

Coast Guard Seaman Radioman Charles V. Schwartz, whose wife, Vicki, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Paulson, 140 Miriam St., Daly City, was graduated from Basic Radioman School. The 20-week course was conducted at the Coast Guard Training Center, Petaluma.

Emergency Room Boom

There's a new kind of specialized doctor arriving on the Peninsula. He doesn't make house calls, but his "office" is open to anyone 24 hours per day.

This "new breed" of doctor rarely says no to anyone — treating anything from a housewife's sore throat to a drunk who's been stabbed in a barroom brawl.

He is the "ER doctor" (hospital lingo for emergency room physician). He usually works under contract with certain emergency rooms.

The new, specialized doctor is praised by some in the medical field and sharply criticized by others. But he is the coming thing in medicine and nearly all the emergency rooms at hospitals in San Mateo County have been taken over by teams of ER doctors.

Within the next year the entire emergency room system in the county may be manned exclusively by ER doctors.

A short while back, emergency rooms were manned by a different sort of doctor — physicians from hospital staffs who agreed to work shifts in the ER each week, apart from their other medical duties. Interns from medical school also were evident in the ER.

In recent years, though, business has suddenly started to boom in emergency rooms, and staffs started to change. The boom is partly due to the upsurge in patients covered by Medi-Cal and Medicare (government sponsored health insurance programs). These patients often go to the emergency room rather than a doctor's office.

Other patients, not covered by Medi-Cal or Medicare, have learned their insurance companies sometimes pay a bigger portion of the medical bill if it is an "emergency" rather than the same type treatment at their doctor's office.

There is still another factor prompting the ER boom, according to some doctors and hospital officials. They note the public is getting more frustrated at waiting days or even weeks to "get in" for an appointment at their doctor's office. The alternative is to simply drive to the nearest emergency room for instant treatment of ailments which may not constitute an emergency.

With the jump in emergency room business, emergency medicine has become recognized as a medical specialty, with numerous residency programs now training ER doctors.

As in any profession, change is welcomed by some doctors and openly opposed by others.

But whether the doctors like it or not, the "closed panel" of ER doctors working in hospital emergency rooms are here to stay. As soon as one hospital adopts such a system, a neighboring, competing hospital is likely to follow suit.

"The emergency room trade is becoming very competitive," said one hospital official who asked not to be identified. "People are brought through the emergency room and then they are hospitalized. It is a way to get more patients in beds — an economic issue."

Other hospital officials disagreed, however, and said emergency rooms are "money losers" for the hospital, but must be maintained in order to keep the status of a "full service" hospital.

"Less than six percent of all admissions (to hospitals) come through the emergency room," commented Joan Ripple of the federally funded Health Systems Agency in San Francisco.

But she noted emergency rooms prompt other economic pluses for hospitals through the use of X-ray and laboratory services connected with emergency room service.

Whether emergency rooms produce economic gains or not, the shift to more specialized service has continued — mostly without fanfare. Area hospitals with panels of ER physicians currently under contract include Mary's Help in Daly City, Mills and Chope in San Mateo and Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City.

Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame is pondering a similar move.

The changeovers have aroused little public concern, but in the medical profession the new ER doctor teams have come under close surveillance from other doctors.

Some doctors are already objecting to the "new breed" of ER physician who they claim is stealing away other doctor's patients by treating and prescribing more than is necessary in the emergency room. They claim this also is escalating medical costs.

One hospital official commented, "If Mrs. Jones comes into the emergency room and has a runny nose, the ER doctor can say that is not an emergency so go and see (doctor) so and so."

"Or, he has the ability to say maybe there is something here and then treat it."

Therein lies at least part of the conflict that sometimes emerges between emergency and non-emergency doctors.

However, some ER physicians claim disputes are becoming less common.

Roger Taylor, M.D., head of the newly established ER panel at Mary's Help Hospital said that during the first month of operation the non-emergency doctors "were watching and asking who are these guys who call themselves ER physicians?"

"But once they realized emergency physicians are just like themselves, they realized there is no threat."

"They realized we are not henchmen coming in to take over the hospital."

Some Deplore Over-Use of ER Doctors

The boom in emergency room business is escalating medical costs, bleeding away government tax revenue and setting the stage for an era of impersonal "contract" medical care.

So said Dr. Basil Meyerowitz, chairman of the surgery department at Mills Hospital.

"Approximately 90 percent of the patients that go to an emergency room have no business going to an emergency room," asserted Meyerowitz. "They should be going to a doctor's office or a drop-in (medical) clinic."

Why is there such an upsurge in emergency room (ER) patients? "One of the reasons is that insurance companies will cover emergency room visits, whereas the same visit to a doctor's office may not be covered," Meyerowitz said.

"Secondly, patients don't always have a doctor to whom they can turn when they have a medical problem."

"Thirdly, the Medi-Cal patients are very poor users of the health care system and they abuse it. They change from doctor to doctor and often the only way they can see a doctor is in the emergency room."

Although it is often more than four times as expensive for a patient to go to an emergency room for treatment rather than a doctor's office, Meyerowitz said Medi-Cal and Medicare patients are often unconcerned.

The reason, he said, is that taxpayers are footing the bill.

But even more alarming to Meyerowitz is what he terms "the exfoliation of emergency room panels that are tending to take over the initial care of anyone and everyone who happens to drop by an emergency room in California."

When a group of six ER doctors under contract at

Dr. Basil Meyerowitz

Mills Hospital recently convinced the administration to re-write their contract — allowing them to continue working at Mills and also open their own emergency medical facility in Foster City — Meyerowitz and 100 other staff doctors staged a sharp protest.

Foster City officials pointed a finger at the 100 protesting doctors, accusing them of being "greedy" since they were sure to lose some patients to the new Foster City clinic.

But Meyerowitz countered that it was the ER doctors who were motivated by "greed" to open their Foster City clinic.

Meyerowitz said Mills staff doctors have, in fact, supported the establishment of a drop-in medical clinic in Foster City, but they oppose their own ER physician team doing it.

"We can see this as the beginning of a larger group (of contract ER physicians)," said Dr. Meyerowitz. "We would end up with an impersonal (ER) staff at Mills Hospital."

"We don't want this group (of ER doctors) to become large and impersonal in its relationship to Mills. We don't want these people involved in a large enterprise. That is the nitty gritty of it."

Meyerowitz said the move by the Mills ER staff is an example of how "corporations" of doctors are sometimes formed, expanded and then start bidding to operate hospital emergency rooms throughout a large area.

The surgeon said he recently sat in on a selection committee which interviewed groups of physicians for a hospital emergency room contract.

"One of the groups submitting bids for the contract had 88 physician partners and 50 physician employees."

"My question is how personal and how committed could they be to the community and the hospital they are working in?"

"When the contract was written with the emergency room doctors at Mills Hospital, there was already some fear expressed by doctors at Mills that this might happen," Meyerowitz continued.

Stories by Alan Quale

ER Physician Explains Specialists' Goals in Providing Emergency Care

Dr. Marcus Welby flashes on the television screen each week, making house calls, intimately involving himself with his patients and saving lives.

He is exactly what the public wants and gets, thanks to Hollywood's fictional imagination. But that's only on television.

In real life Dr. Marcus Welby isn't always there when his patient needs him; so, that patient often ends up at the hospital emergency room (ER).

This is only one reason why there is a big upsurge in emergency room use. And along with this ER boom there is a new kind of doctor emerging, the ER physician who works nowhere else except the emergency room.

This is the picture painted by Dr. Roger Taylor, one of the so called "new breed" of ER doctors arriving on the Peninsula.

Taylor is part of a group which recently signed a contract to staff the Mary's Help Hospital ER. Like groups of ER doctors who have taken over emergency services at most other hospitals, he and his co-workers have come under close surveillance from hospital staff doctors.

At some hospitals the emergency physicians have been accused of administering more medical care than is necessary in the ER, stealing away other doctors' patients and putting medical costs on the up escalator.

The ER doctor also has been criticized for agreeing to work under contract with a hospital. He has also been stereotyped by some as an impersonal doctor, often scheming to expand his specialized "contract" service to other offices.

Taylor and other emergency physicians deny all that but they seldom fire heavy verbal blasts back at the accusing doctors.

Instead, they work hard at winning acceptance among hospital staffs, trying to convince them, in Taylor's words, "that we are not henchmen coming in to take over the hospital."

"We consider ourselves generalists (general practitioners) and we have specialties in the care of critically ill patients," said Taylor.

"We've trained ourselves to try to keep everyone (who arrives in the ER) alive," added Taylor, who is vice president of the California Chapter of the American College of Emergency Physicians.

Emergency medicine is now recognized as a medical specialty with numerous residency programs now training ER doctors.

As with other emerging specialties, Taylor said, the medical profession sometimes views the new doctors with caution, "trying to decide where the ER physician fits into the medical team."

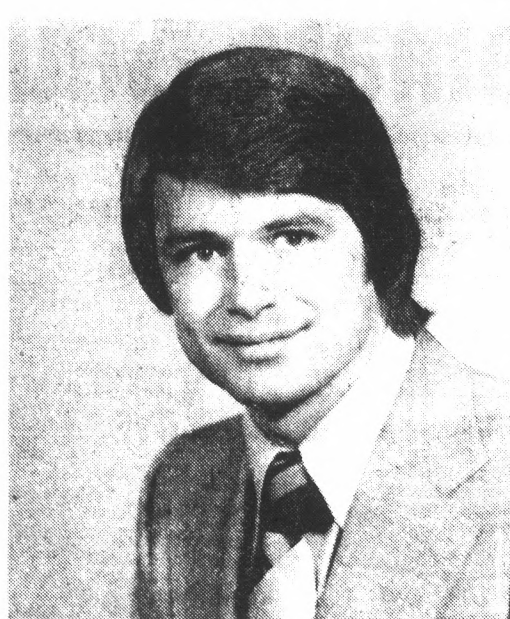

This trend is normal, he said, and he offered some examples: "When plastic surgeons came around, other surgeons said 'what is this?' After millions of meetings and frequent heated discussions, everyone realized plastic surgeons have specialties different than regular surgeons."

"The same was true for cardiology versus internal medicine and for ear, nose and throat doctors versus oral surgeons."

When a tug-of-war develops over patients, one group usually accuses the other of doing too much. So it is with ER doctors and emergency rooms. Staff physicians often complain that as many as 90 percent of the people treated in emergency rooms do not really have a medical emergency.

Taylor flatly denies the 90 percent figure. Instead, he estimated that about 35 percent of the people arriving at the ER "have injuries or illnesses that need immediate care and treatment."

Another 30 percent of ER patients may not end up having a medical emergency, but they don't know that until after they are diagnosed.

Finally, Taylor estimated about 35 percent of the people who come into the emergency room realize they do not have an emergency and offer a "myriad of excuses" for coming there.

But whatever a person's reasons, Taylor said emergency physicians have a moral, medical and legal obligation "to see anyone who comes through our doors."

Most of the extra charge pays for the 24-hour staffing and "much more sophisticated equipment" required in the ER for treatment of severe emergencies.

Addressing complaints from staff doctors that emergency physicians often administer more tests on a patient than are necessary, Taylor said malpractice suits are so engrained in the minds of both emergency physicians and family doctors that both groups usually administer tests on patients for all serious possibilities on the first visit.

Furthermore, he noted, family doctors sometimes place ER physicians in a predicament over exactly how many tests a patient should have.

"A woman comes in (the ER) complaining of chest pains," Dr. Taylor gave as an example, noting she had already called her family doctor on the problem. "The private physician calls and says 'I know this person and I just think she is hyperventilating.'"

The ER doctor could give the woman a simple examination and medication, skipping further tests. "But he personally must be comfortable that she does not have a heart attack or a blood clot in the lung," Taylor said.

Referring to some staff doctors' complaints that ER physicians work mostly under contract with certain hospitals, Taylor asserted "there is not a physician in the world" who doesn't work, under certain circumstances, under some sort of contract.

Contracts have been awarded to groups of ER doctors who have taken over emergency room service at most hospitals in San Mateo County. Most of the hospitals have refused to award contracts to larger groups of ER doctors and have, in fact, set strict prohibitions against their ER doctor staffs from expanding outside the hospitals.

Only Mary's Help Hospital has awarded its emergency room contract to a larger group, California Emergency Physicians, an Oakland-based partnership involving more than 100 emergency physicians. The group has been awarded ER contracts at hospitals throughout California.

However, Steve McDermott, spokesman for the group, said they are unlike other large emergency groups, which often are owned by a single doctor. California Emergency Physicians, he said, is owned "by the physicians at large."

Furthermore, he said, emergency physicians from the group usually "live in the area where they work and practice fulltime in the emergency room department."

"One of the keys we have found in running a good service is to work with the (hospital) medical staff and make arrangements to notify physicians and ensure that when a patient comes to the emergency room that patient gets a private physician for follow-up care," McDermott added.

Some staff doctors who first viewed such emergency physician groups with caution, have grudgingly started to accept the new contract procedure.

"It seems to be working out better than the old system," conceded one staff doctor at Mary's Help Hospital.

The "old system" at most hospitals involved groups of staff doctors signing up for certain shifts in the emergency room. Interns from medical schools also were evident in the ER.

The old system is almost history by now. Mary's Help, Chope, Mills and Sequoia hospitals have all awarded contracts to various closed panels of emergency physicians. Peninsula Hospital is considering a similar move.

Many staff doctors from these hospitals now agree the new emergency room panels are better than the old setup, but only if the ER doctors practice only at the hospitals and do not expand to other facilities. (Many staff doctors at Mills Hospital are still furious because their emergency room panel opened a medical facility in Foster City.)

The new contracts for emergency physicians are usually set on a fee-for-service basis. The ER physician sees a patient and submits a bill. The hospital then bills for him and reimburses to the physician the amount collected.

The changeover in emergency room staffing has occurred at most local hospitals with little fanfare — and has aroused little public concern. But in the medical profession debates continue on the changes.

Taylor takes a philosophical approach to it all and maintains the ER changeovers represent just another small part of a continuous evolution taking place in the medical profession.

He noted doctors have long since started to revise their treatment procedures by banding together in clinics and group practices.

"In that evolution there is a valid concern that we will lose our striving for the Marcus Welby image in our medical system," he said. "It is not to think that we can ever be Marcus Welby, but we don't want to forget to strive for that image."

"It is no longer a question of whether emergency medicine is here to stay," Taylor added, noting the emergency physician's "front line approach to saving lives is a definitely unique specialty."

The only question remaining is the delicate balance between this specialty of emergency medicine and how it relates to all the other specialties.

"Emergency medicine is evolving — trying to define itself."

Nancy Stancill Brooding About Our Ages

It seems as if there is nothing that people brood about more than getting older.

As a reporter, I dread the moment during an interview when I must inquire, in a carefully offhand voice, "And how old are you?"

The question is rivalled only by "How much is your salary?" for the reactions it produces.

Men turn pale and get a certain grim look on their faces. Women hesitate and try to ignore the question.

THEN THERE'S the oft-repeated question, "You're not going to put that in the paper, are you?"

Whether a person is 20, 40 or 60, or somewhere in between, it seems that few people want to admit to their ages.

If people really get candid about their feelings, it seems that a universal complaint is being in a situation that makes you feel older.

Fears of growing older are exemplified on bad days when it seems that everyone younger than you is smarter, better looking and more successful.

One person I know feels ancient at the age of 28 whenever he goes to a rock concert. Another person at age 40 can't abide discos.

As I approach the age of 29 I am beginning to share those feelings.

My husband, who just turned that horrid age, agrees with me. There is nothing good about being 29. It gives you an entire year to dread the real bugaboo — turning 30.

Several weeks before my mate had his 29th birthday, I started noticing some peculiar symptoms.

He has a stunningly beautiful, thick crop of curly black hair! I should be so lucky.)

I would notice him standing before the mirror, combing his hair carefully, looking to see if he could spot a gray hair. Finally he found one and was inconsolable.

"WELL, at least I have more hair than any other 29-year-old man I know," he said a trifle belligerently. I smiled and agreed.

My mother, however, seems to be more upset about me reaching the exalted age of 29 than I am.

"Why, Nancy, I keep telling everyone you're 24," she said long-distance from Virginia. My heart sank.

Of course, my mother was the same person who told me when I turned 21 that I better hurry and find a man to marry, since a woman's looks begin to fade after age 19.

It's sad to think that in this youth-oriented society, the only people who seem to be proud of their age are the really elderly.

And even then, if you meet a person who is 90 or 95, you're apt to compliment the person for looking younger.

Help Wanted

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burlingame, Daly City and Redwood City.

The local phone number for area residents is 992-0957, an answering service. Residents may also contact the main office in Burlingame at 342-0801, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

EASTER SEALS — Youths or adults are needed to distribute posters and application forms to local merchants and public places for their Disco Dance in June. This would be done in Burlingame, Millbrae and San Bruno at your convenience.

STONESTOWN YMCA — Typists and general office assistance is needed. The time and hours can be arranged.

FRIENDS TO PARENTS — Volunteers are needed to work on a one-to-one basis with isolated and inexperienced young parents. Volunteers will assist them in assuming control of their own lives and help to provide a healthy, growing atmosphere for the child. Training is provided and will begin on May 16th in the evening. This program serves Northern San Mateo County.

SUICIDE PREVENTION AND CRISIS CENTER — There will be a training session for volunteers interested in staffing the 24-hour crisis line beginning June 3 and continuing for the following four Saturdays. Interviews are required prior to the training.

Additional information about these and other volunteer opportunities may be obtained by contacting the Volunteer Bureau at the numbers listed or by dropping by the main office in Burlingame, at 119 Primrose Road. Interviews will be made in Daly City by appointment only. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded, in part, by the County of San Mateo.

Good morning, good cooks.

Having a first-rate wheat germ carrot cake recipe in your files is like having money in the bank. Richly spiced and beautifully textured, this cake makes a hit with everyone. Dessert lovers and those who usually go for a piece of fruit will enjoy it equally. What this cake does have is plenty of fresh flavor from the carrots, raisins, orange peel and wheat germ itself. And its appealingly moist texture makes for easy slicing. Basically this is a one-bowl recipe that mixes in a jiffy. It looks very attractive baked in a bundt pan. Keep this quick and tasty recipe in mind for spring parties and holiday meals. A good keeper, it totes well to pot luck suppers and picnics.

WHEAT GERM CARROT CAKE

- 1 1/2 cups cooking oil
- 2 cups brown sugar (packed)
- 4 eggs
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1 1/2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 3 cups grated carrot
- 1 1/2 cups vacuum packed wheat germ, regular or sugar and honey
- 2 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 3/4 teaspoons nutmeg
- 1 cup raisins
- 3/4 cup chopped pecans

Beat together the 1 1/2 cups oil, 2 cups brown sugar and 4 eggs. Mix in the one tablespoon orange peel, 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla and 3 cups carrot. Combine the 1 1/2 cups wheat germ, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons each salt and cinnamon and three-fourths teaspoon nutmeg. Stir into carrot mixture. Blend in the one cup raisins and three-fourths cup chopped nuts. Turn into greased and floured 10-inch bundt pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 60 to 70 minutes or until wood pick inserted into center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan to rack to finish cooling. When cooled you may sift powdered sugar over top, if you wish.

Librarian Talks to 'Friends'

A view of life in Iran will be presented when John C. Frantz, city librarian for the City of San Francisco, discusses the year he spent as consultant to the Pahlavi National Library for the Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests May 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the community room at Serramonte Library.

Also scheduled is the annual display of arts and crafts, the work of members of The Friends. The public is invited, free.

According to Chairman Margaret Connolly, Frantz was consultant to the national Iranian library in 1975-76, following which he accepted his present position. He has been consultant or director to several public or state libraries: director, Library Services and Construction Act, United States Office of Education, Washington, D.C.; and executive chairman, National Book Committee, New York, N.Y.

Virginia Tierney will preside at the brief business meeting prior to the program. There will be an election of officers for 1978-79.

ATTENTION IMPORT BUYERS

CAR AND DRIVER: Readers voted Fiesta "the most significant new imported car of the year."

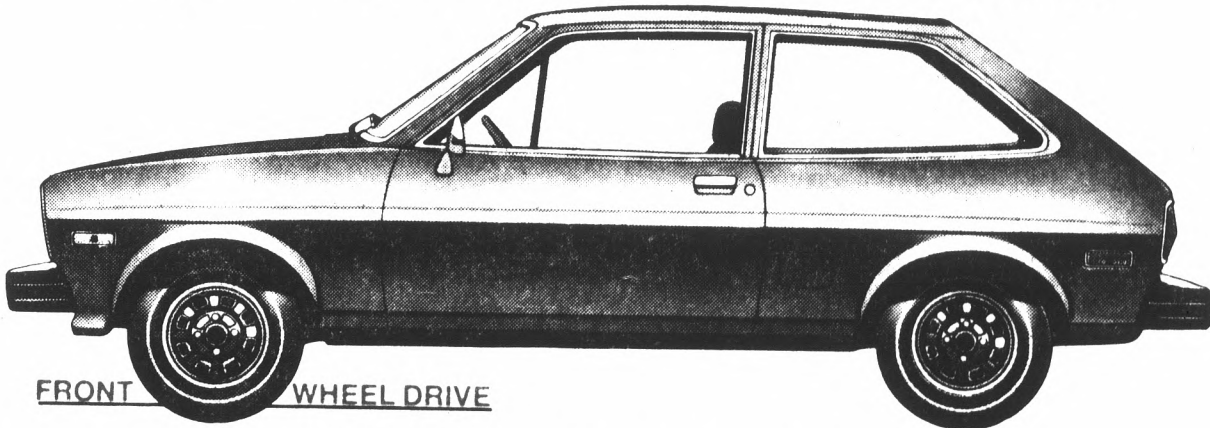

"... this is the kind of car a lot of people should be driving in America." PAT BEDARD, CAR AND DRIVER, APRIL '78

POPULAR MECHANICS readers report... "94% of Fiesta owners would buy one again."

MOTOR TREND: "The Fiesta combines exhilaration, utility and economy as few cars ever have."

Test a Ford Fiesta.

YOU'LL SEE WHY IT'S CATCHING ON.

FRONT WHEEL DRIVE

SOME IMPORTANT REASONS IT'S FORD'S EUROPEAN SUCCESS CAR:

MILEAGE

Fiesta has great fuel economy with EPA estimates as high as any car offered by an American manufacturer† (1978 EPA Buyers Guide), 43 mpg highway and 30 mpg city.* Fiesta may be just what Americans need.

ACCELERATION

In Ford tests, California emissions equipped models did 0-50 MPH in an average of 9.1 seconds.

FRONT WHEEL DRIVE

Its front wheel drive and transverse-mounted engine put more of its weight over the driving wheels for improved traction, even on slippery surfaces.

SERVICEABILITY

It's easy to service with a 7500-mile (6 months) recommended service interval after a 1500-mile free service stop. And there are more than 5,000 Ford Fiesta Dealers coast to coast.

43*/30***

Colorful Setting For Any Occasion

House specialties, combination plates and a la carte items are in ample supply at LA PINATA, a popular Mexican restaurant in Burlingame. A colorful setting for any festive occasion.

Year after year, San Francisco's world-famous FINOCCHIO'S continues to provide top-notch entertainment. The EVE-ETTES, Finocchio's classy chorus line of singers and dancers, perform in several revues, all different, in four nightly shows, except Mondays. . . . Rex Sole Saute and Veal Scallopine with Mushrooms are among the exquisite luncheon entrees served Mondays through Fridays at L'AUBERGE French restaurant. A varied salad and sandwich selection, also. Not open Sundays. . . . ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant, Rockaway Beach, is a colorful setting for enjoying Italian recipes concocted by Owner ENRICO ROMANO, as well as an assortment of seafood and fish specialties, augmented with a few steaks. Also pizza in three sizes and many varieties to eat in or to go. . . . BAYHILL LOUNGE is one of the hottest spots in the San Bruno area, lately. THE TRI SOUNDS, a local group growing in popularity with each passing week, is one of the reasons for the surge in business, says Owner MEL CICERO. . . . BEARDSLEY'S new menu continues to receive compliments from satisfied customers, who are especially fond of prime rib, a house specialty here. All dinners include soup or salad, potato and bread. . . . LITTLE JOE'S FISH FACTORY is offering an "Early bird special" that is worthy of its name. $4.25 is the price of a London Broil or fish dinner, served full course, from 4 to 6 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays. . . . The RODEWAY INN has a "2 for 1" coupon (see Bright Lights) which is good for specially-prepared gourmet meals at special prices. "Dinner includes our 'fabulous salad bar,'" said General Manager JIM RAINE. Coupon valid every Friday, Saturday and Sunday through May 21. . . . YOLANDA'S super May special is a Cannelloni dinner for $3.95. Soup, a choice of salad or pasta, two vegetables, bread and butter, and a glass of wine are included. No coupons necessary. . . . A casual, hospitable atmosphere pervades at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant. Your waitress is as sincerely concerned with making your meal a true pleasure as is host-owner TONY LICATA, and CHRIS TASSOS, manager. . . . Wide windows of the spacious dining room at CAPTAIN CHARLES, Rockaway Beach, focus your interest on the Pacific Ocean view as you enjoy seafood specialties that are equally rewarding.

The new Prime Rib feature at the SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET, Stateline, Nevada, is proving an extra special attraction, especially so when priced at just $5.95. BARNEY'S club is spotlighting a $250,000 jackpot which, they report is "the world's largest," and that's a lot of money in anyone's book. . . . Comedian STEVE MARTIN and country and pop star KENNY ROGERS, one of the "hottest" talents in show business, open in the South Shore Room at HARRAH'S TAHOE May 19 for a one-week engagement. Musical backing for the two shows nightly through May 25 by the Brian Farnon orchestra.

Mertes Officially Appointed

As expected, Dr. David Mertes Thursday was named superintendent of the Santa Barbara Community College District.

Mertes, 48, has been president of the College of San Mateo for seven years.

Mertes' appointment became official Thursday afternoon during a meeting of the Santa Barbara district's board of trustees.

As superintendent, Mertes will also be president of Santa Barbara City College.

As of this morning, a starting date for Mertes on the new job had not been set.

Mertes will replace Dr. Glenn Gooder, 56, who has announced his retirement, effective Aug. 30.

Mertes agreed to a four-year contract. His starting salary will be $46,000 per year. Mertes was one of 101 applicants for the position.

He was the unanimous choice of the seven-member board of trustees.

Said Mertes, "I'm impressed with the selection committee and board and with the college's total commitment, especially in its programs and pride in what it is doing."

This morning, Mertes said, "I leave San Mateo with mixed emotions. I consider this to be an outstanding college. I leave San Mateo with mixed feelings. I have spent 10 years here."

Mertes' wife, Barbara, will remain in the Bay Area. She is the dean of the Livermore branch of Hayward's Chabot College, a campus with 5,000 students.

The Mertes live in Foster City.

Do Study County Ballot Measures

"You must know — said the Judge; but the Snark exclaimed Fudge! That statute is obsolete, quite! Let me tell you, my friends, the whole county depends On your ancient ancestral right."

—Adapted from Lewis Carroll
There are measures on the June ballot — beside Jarvis-Gann — that are there because many citizens believe that some parts of San Mateo County government are quite obsolete. The passage or failure of these issues is so crucial it behooves San Mateo County voters to use wisely their ancient and ancestral right to vote, lest they wake up June 7 to find that unknown to them the course of government in San Mateo County has changed.

PROPOSITION A is on the ballot because many citizens believe that the way San Mateo County elects its supervisors is all fudge and obsolete. This measure would amend Article II, Section 1 of the San Mateo County Charter to provide that each supervisor will be elected only by those voters who reside in the district that he represents and where he resides.

Should this proposition pass, the people in the South County would not vote for the supervisor who represents Daly City and the Coastside. Conversely, voters in Daly City would not vote for the supervisors from South County areas. Presently supervisors are elected by the voters at large, although each supervisor represents a specific geographical area.

FOR YEARS some citizens, particularly residents of the North County, have begged for the right to vote on this issue. They have argued that too often pressure groups have banded together to defeat strong candidates or to elect supervisors who are not conversant with the problems of the district they represent, or who may not be sympathetic with the people they are supposed to serve.

Opponents of Proposition A, on the other hand, claim that the present system forces each of the five supervisors to become aware of the needs of every area of the county, and thus increases their effectiveness.

In the past this issue has generated many great battles. Indeed, it has caused some localities to suggest the county should be divided to create two new counties. It is ironic to think that Proposition A may be decided June 6 by voters who are too excited about another bill to consider this one thoroughly.

PROPOSITION B, also on the June 6 ballot, would change the charter so that vacancies occurring mid-term on the Board of Supervisors would be filled by the board calling a specific election. Since it is the present practice to leave it to the governor of California to appoint whomever he desires to fill vacant slots on the board that governs San Mateo County, Proposition B represents a far-reaching change.

Proposition B, should it pass, would direct that the supervisors call for a special election within 90 days; that the election be no less than 102 nor more than 131 days after the vacancies occur; and that if there is a regularly scheduled election date within 270 days of the calling for the special election, the board may decide to use that election to fill the vacancy. It also provides that the candidate who receives the most votes be declared elected.

PROPOSITION C, if it passes, would eliminate the requirement that the Director of Public Health in San Mateo County be a physician or a doctor of public health.

For several years proponents of Proposition C have argued that the responsibilities of the Director of Health and Welfare require skills and training which are not necessarily those of physicians or doctors. They believe that the present requirement limits recruiting when the position becomes vacant. It should be noted that the physicians in San Mateo County support Proposition C.

If the voters pass Proposition A, or B, or C they can be sure their decision will become part of the proposed revision of the San Mateo County charter.

Information regarding Proposition A, B and C has been compiled by the League of Women Voters and other groups. It can be obtained at most of the public libraries in the county.

K-Mart Discount Lease Set

K-Mart Corp. has signed a lease for the construction of a discount department store in South San Francisco, John P. Johnson, vice president of real estate for the corporation, has announced.

The South San Francisco K-Mart, at Westborough and Gellert boulevards, is part of the firm's programmed expansion of its discount department stores in California, Johnson said. A total of 105 stores now are operating in California.

Expected to open in November, K-Mart will be an 84,180-square-foot building and will employ more than 100 persons. It will provide parking for 500 cars on the nine-acre site.

Landlord-developer for the project is E. N. Malsel and Associates of Southfield, Mich.

K-Mart Corp., founded in 1899, had 1,367 stores in operation in the United States, Puerto Rico, Canada and Australia at the close of 1977. Johnson said the firm expects to open about 160 new stores in 1978. With its Kresge and Jupiter stores, the company operates more than 1,700 retail outlets, Johnson noted.

Lillo Goes On Patrol

Coast Guard Fireman Machinery Technician Raymond B. Lillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lillo, 331 Santa Barbara, Daly City, recently departed for an Alaskan fisheries patrol in the Bering Sea.

He is serving as a crew-member aboard the Coast Guard cutter Rush, homeported in Alameda. During the two-month patrol, Rush will conduct surveillance operations with Coast Guard aircraft to enforce international treaties and U.S. laws, including the 200-mile fisheries observation zone. A 1975 graduate of Jefferson High School, Lillo joined the Coast Guard in July 1975.

The Regent

By JULIE SMITH
Seniors may pay for their caps and gowns now through June 1. They must be paid for before graduation rehearsal or names will be removed from the graduation list. The cost of the cap and gown is $6.75.

A list of June graduates with outstanding book bills is posted at the cashier's window. These bills must be paid before any diploma will be issued.

ATTENTION SENIORS — Here are some important dates for you to write down and remember: May 27 is the Junior/Senior Prom. June 2 is the senior picnic at Blackberry Farm in Cupertino. The cost has not been decided yet. June 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Senior Awards Night. Your parents are invited to attend this night of recognition to many seniors. June 12 is senior checkout. If you owe money for books, equipment, etc., they must be paid by this day.

June 13 at 9 a.m. you will line up for the first time for graduation rehearsal. Plan to be in school all day so stay away from doctor appointments and notify employers. June 14 will have another rehearsal at 9 a.m. and then the perfect dress rehearsal at 1 p.m. June 15 is the big day. At 8 p.m. you will become graduates.

Are you thinking of something to put into the time capsule? All seniors are welcome to put something in to be remembered by. Dedication will be May 26 during Spirit Week. If you plan to put something in, keep it small because the box is only about 8 by 8 by 10 inches.

THIS YEAR Serramonte High School will be 10 years old! The student body is going to celebrate by having a Spirit Week starting May 22 and ending with the Junior/Senior Prom May 27. Monday is dress like a kid day. Tuesday is normal/abnormal day and faculty/student softball game. Normal/abnormal day is when everyone acts like human beings during the first three periods of the day.

Then after third period everyone is supposed to act crazy. On Wednesday there will be a junior and senior football game. Thursday there will be a rally announcing the Club of the Year and giving out the Spirit Trophy to the class with the most spirit.

Also, next year's student body officers and cheerleaders will be introduced. Friday is Spirit Day. Wear school colors — red, black and white. Spirit Week will end for the juniors and seniors Saturday with the Prom. Happy birthday, Serramonte!

TINKER BELL will be at Serramonte this weekend. She will appear in the Drama Department spring play "Peter Pan." Saturday there is an afternoon matinee at noon and other performances Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 8. Tickets are $2.50 and all seats are reserved. You may purchase tickets at the little theater, at the cashier's office, from Debbie Draven or Lou Silberman.

Congratulations to Curtus Dennison, Marianne Lenci and Willie Mendoza for being selected to the Student Advisory Council.

Guardman In Alaska

Coast Guard Fireman Apprentice Daniel V. Crocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis V. Crocker, 64 Park Manor Drive, Daly City, is currently on an Alaskan fisheries patrol in the North Pacific Ocean. He is serving as a crew-member aboard the Coast Guard cutter Morgenthau, homeported in San Francisco.

During the 82-day patrol, Morgenthau will conduct surveillance operations in the North Pacific and enforce international treaties and U.S. laws, including the 200-mile fisheries conservation zone. This cutter already has assisted in the rescue of a 645-foot Panamanian vessel taking on water in the Gulf of Alaska. Morgenthau escorted the stricken vessel to the Canadian port of Prince Rupert. A 1977 graduate of Westmoor High School, Crocker joined the Coast Guard in July 1977.

Le Pacini

Why is Bobby Winkles a seemingly better manager this year than he was last season? A great college coach at Arizona State, he now has a team more akin to the age group with which he had his greatest successes. He apparently handles kids better than he does disgruntled old pros, and the kids obviously dig him.

But — and this is not meant as a knock to Winkles or the A's — the American League has certainly dropped noticeably below the average talent of the National League.

Examine examples on the A's from the Giants. Gary Alexander, Oakland's biggest hitting hero and among the AL homerun hitters, would at best be a platoon player with the Giants. The kid pitching from the Giants, Alan Wirth and Johnny Johnson, would have been pitching AAA or AA baseball this year had the Giants not tossed them into the pot in the Vida Blue deal.

Jack Billingham, who couldn't make the pitcher-hungry Cincy squad, is a leading starting pitcher for the surprising Detroit Tigers. Mike Caldwell, who couldn't get the side out for weeks at a time with the Giants, seems to be hurling nothing but goose eggs for Milwaukee. The list could go on, but you get the idea.

WILLIE MCCOVEY and Ron Fairly are closing in as additions to one of the all-time favorite baseball trivia questions: Who played major league baseball for four decades? The answer, as you must know by now, is Ted Williams (1939-1960), Early Wynn (1939-63), Mickey Vernon (1937-1960) and — cheap shot — Minnie Minoso, who really played from 1949-1964, but got in some token appearances with the White Sox in 1976 as a favor from Bill Veeck.

McCovey started in 1959, Fairly in '58 (for only 15 games), and both claim they intend to go until at least 1980, when they will turn 42 (McCovey is six months older than Fairly). Considering the shape they're in, and the way both are contributing to their clubs, 1980 seems easy.

Mention of Fairly leads to another trivia question: Who are the four currently active players who date back to the decade of the 1950s? You already know two of them.

Give up? Pitcher Jim Kaat (1959) and catcher Tim McCarver ('59) of the Phillies.

MORE BASEBALL esoterica: The four most prolific pinch-hitters in baseball history all played for Pittsburgh and three of them have been south-paw swingers. The champion, catcher Smokey Burgess (144 pinch-hits) is being closed in on by Manny Mota, who needed 23 to overtake Burgess when the season began. Mota, who broke in as an infielder with the Giants, played pretty regularly as an outfielder with the Pirates, as the bulk of his pinch-hits have come with the Dodgers. He is the only conventional swinger among the top four. Can you name the other two?

One of them is easy, a Pirate outfielder with 116 pinch-hits, Jerry Lynch. But the fourth-best substitute hitter in baseball history was a pitcher named Red Lucas, who cracked out 114 pinch-hits in a career that also saw him pitching and hitting for the Giants, Braves and Reds.

Why the Pirates? I can't speak for their team hitting philosophy when Lucas was swinging for them in the 1930s, but I do know that since the 1950s their bag has been to start swinging as soon as they leave the dugout, on the theory that you can't hit the ball if you don't swing at it. One of the hardest things to do in baseball is walk a Pirate.

AWAY FROM baseball briefly. . . . The most popular position drafted first by NFL teams in the recent draft (including those teams which had two first place draft choices) was defensive end, as five such creatures were picked.

But that does not seem to be a significant trend, because four of each running backs, line-backers, wide receivers and defensive backs were chosen. The only surprise, perhaps, was that three offensive tackles were picked first by their respective new pro teams.

Least popular positions were center, offensive guard and kicker, just one of each being picked first.

IS THERE any wonder that the Portland Trailblazers had such a fine defensive team? Four of their five starters recently were picked on either the first or second team NBA all-defensive team by the pro coaches.

Bill Walton, Mo Lucas and Lionel Hollins all made the first team, while Bob Gross was picked for the second squad.

Rounding out the first team were Bobby Jones (Denver) and Don Buse (Phoenix). The Warriors' E.C. Coleman made second team, along with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (Lakers) and Artis Gilmore (Chicago), who tied for second best at the pivot, and guards Norm Van Lier (Chicago) and Quinn Buckner (Milwaukee).

LOCAL NOTES: The Skyline College baseball team has a decided Terra Nova High flavor, with four of its key members former Tigers.

Pitcher Gordon Shirley is the staff's workhorse, nearly doubling the number of innings pitched by the second Skyline starter. Right infielder Brett Lowart leads the team in RBI, is second in runs scored and has the second highest batting average. Second baseman Ranier Binsfield has been one of the team's most consistent performers both offensively and defensively, and also leads the squad in home runs. And first baseman Daryl Fazio has been doing what clean-up hitters are supposed to do — delivering the long ball and driving in runs.

AND MORE baseball trivia until space runs out:

In what year did the Giants place most players on the All-Star team and how many were there? That's 1966, when the Giants put six men on the team: Pitchers Gaylord Perry and Juan Mari-chal, catcher Tom Haller, Willie McCovey at first, Jim Ray Hart at third and, of course, Willie Mays in center.

And State Tourney Berth

CSM Wins GGC Title

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE

To want a game was to win it, as far as College of San Mateo's baseball team was concerned. And apparently desire has grown stronger in the waning days of the season.

Friday the Bulldogs ripped Laney 14-2 to win the Golden Gate Conference playoffs and earn another trip to the state tournament.

The state tourney, scheduled to begin May 25 in Long Beach, will be an eight-team double-elimination affair this year, which will be rough on every pitching staff. But the Bulldogs aren't worried about that now.

"We had our ups and downs during the season, sure," said Leigh Gullette, the GGC's leading batter. "We lost concentration when we got up by a couple of games. But it seemed like every time we really wanted a win, we got it."

CSM had lost its first two games with Laney this season. Last Saturday, in the final regular season game, they wanted to turn the tables. Badly. And did, 19-1.

Thursday, CSM wanted to even accounts for the season with San Jose, in the playoff opener. And did, 12-7.

Did the Bulldogs really want Friday's game? "Hah. What do you think?" said CSM rightfielder Dave Rosaia, a bull of a man who went 4-for-4 and drove in three runs. He also proved adept at handling bottles of bubbly beverage, which were directed indiscriminately throughout the locker room afterward. "It's largely a matter of desire, of bearing down."

It had been a torrid three games — CSM had tallied 45 runs in less than a week, 33 of them against Laney. But the Bulldogs weren't particularly surprised, since slugging had been their forte all along.

"We've done this sort of thing before," said designated hitter Jeff Maxoutopoulos, who went 4-for-4 and tallied three times. "Win six in a row, maybe, then drop a couple, and come back."

"The two games we lost to Laney we were facing a stingy lefthander (Mike Wilson, who could not pitch Friday because he'd gone eight-plus innings in relief the day before). This time was different."

"I just wish we didn't have a two-week layoff before the state tournament. We're going so good now."

No one had questioned CSM's ability to hit. But going into the playoffs the pitching was a big if. Some observers wondered if CSM coach John Noce had been wise to start ace Larry Navilhon the first day against San Jose — figuring that if Navilhon lost (as he well might, they said), CSM would have nothing to come back with.

This time the observers were wrong, though. Navilhon was in fine form the six innings he pitched Thursday (he had a 12-1 lead when he left). And Ron Sylvia came back Friday to notch a complete game, allowing no earned runs, scattering nine hits, whiffing seven and walking only one.

Sylvia, a 6-4 freshman righthander from Jefferson High, had suffered a tendon injury in his throwing arm during CSM's "spring training" in Arizona, and hadn't been too strong early in the GGC season. But his last two starts have been encouraging.

"I've just started getting it back now," said Sylvia. "And I'm confident. I'm certainly confident that those bats are going to be working."

Sylvia committed a throwing error that let two runs in during the first inning, but had no trouble after that till the seventh, when Laney singled back through the box three times to load the bases with one out.

"I was a little worried," said Sylvia. "Not so much about having one or two runs score. But I didn't want them to bunch runs for a big inning. I had to reach for something extra."

CSM's defense up the middle has been superb lately, and it rescued Sylvia — a pop fly to short and a fielder's choice snuffed the threat.

The key defensive play came in the first after Laney had scored two. The Eagles had a runner at third with none down. Sylvia got a batter on a strikeout. Then the Eagles' Angel Rivera popped up an intended squeeze bunt.

CSM first baseman Steve Wallace charged, caught the pop and whipped the ball back to third for an inning-ending double play.

CSM broke the game open with seven runs in the fourth. The key blow was struck by Gullette, who had been shut down earlier. Not ordinarily a power hitter, he pulled a fat offering over the right field fence for a three-run homer.

As it turned out, it was Laney's pitching that collapsed, not CSM's. Starter Willie Hardwick gave up two runs on no hits in the second, and had gotten through the third three up, three down. But he put the first two runners in the fourth on, and he'd already dished up six walks, so he was yanked. In retrospect.

Reliever Anthony Wallace may never want to see San Mateo again — he walked, gave up 12 hits and nine earned runs.

CSM is now 29-9 on the season.

team to win a game in the state tournament during the last two years.

The basketball season was moved to spring this year because of pressure from Southern schools. The North, unhappy about all this, voted to drop out of the state tournament next year and restore basketball to winter, where it belongs.

"The way they feel about the North down here, for us to win games two years in a row is exceptional," said Martinez.

CSM's players didn't think it was all that exceptional. "We didn't lose our poise in the second half tonight," said Murray. "We thought all along we should be in the finals."

"The way things had been going for us, I'm surprised the lights didn't go off with two minutes to play, and we'd have to come back tomorrow (Saturday)," said CSM guard Leah Lepore, whose two brilliant passes down the stretch really helped.

Radio station KCSM-FM (91.1) will broadcast tonight's game, beginning at 7:25.

Rams Take Last Berth

By JOHN MURPHY

Chris Toohey fired a one-hitter Wednesday at Marchbank Park as Westmoor High's baseball team beat Oceana 8-2 to clinch the fourth and final spot in next week's North Peninsula League playoffs.

Both teams entered the game with 6-7 records. Oceana was coming off a tough extra-inning win over South San Francisco after Westmoor had given the Sharks a shot at the playoffs by losing to Half Moon Bay last Friday.

Toohey struck out six and walked two. Both of the runs scored off him were unearned. Oceana's John Proffitt got the only hit off Toohey to lead off the sixth as he ruined the no-hitter with a bloop single.

Toohey's complete game marked only the second time this season that reliever Rich Baxley has not appeared in a contest.

"I thought of running him in there in the sixth when they scored a run and had a couple of guys on," said Ram coach Rod Losberger. "If they would have put another runner on, he would have been in there."

But Toohey got out of the inning without any of Baxley's help to ensure a playoff meeting Tuesday between Westmoor and round-robin champion El Camino (12-1).

El Camino, winner of 12 straight in the NPL, is a very good team this year, but not as awesome as it has been the past three years when they racked up three straight Region I titles and two Central Coast Section championships.

Westmoor led 2-1 entering the fifth and padded the lead after Tony Cooper led off with a base hit. Consecutive hit-and-run singles by Tom Bonomi and Greg Eagleton plated two runs and put the Rams up 4-1. They were never headed.

D.C. Net Club Eyes Logo

The Daly City Tennis Club in Serramonte needs a logo which may be used as a patch and a letterhead insignia. It may even be silk-screened on shirts or jackets. Ideas may be entered no matter how rough the draft. This is not a talent contest. Entries need not be artistically polished. Contact requirements are:

Entrant must be 18 years or older and a Daly City resident or Daly City Tennis Club member.

Logo must include the club name "Daly City Tennis Club, Serramonte," or "D.C.T.C.S."

Submit the entry on an 8 1/2 by 11-inch sheet of paper. Include name, address, zip and phone number. Incomplete entries will not be considered.

Mail entry to P.O. Box 711, Daly City 94105, postmarked by June 30.

Two entries per person.

All entries become property of D.C.T.C.S.

Awards will be presented to first, second and third place designers.

Toohey, besides his pitching heroics, actually provided the go-ahead run in the top of the third with a solo homer.

Cooper had two hits and an RBI for the Rams and Eagleton added a pair of hits and RBIs.

In another NPL make-up game, visiting Terra Nova scored four runs in the first inning against Jefferson and that was enough to top the Tribe, 6-3.

The win moved TN a half game ahead of idle third place South City. The Tigers have completed their season while SSF still has a make-up game left to play Friday at Orange Park against El Camino.

Dave Bancroft picked up his fifth consecutive league victory, even though Terra Nova paraded three other pitchers to the mound after him. Bancroft also had a solo homer in the third.

TN's four-run first was highlighted by Mike Diaz' two-run single. Dave Luhrs, Mike Mooney and Kurt Warford all had a pair of hits for the Tigers.

Clay Younger paced Jeff's effort with three hits and two RBIs.

TN Wins NPL Girls Track Title

Terra Nova High's girls track team used its overall balance to outscore second place El Camino 80-58 Thursday in the North Peninsula League finals.

Although Terra Nova captured the team competition, Half Moon Bay's Becky Schmidt had probably the finest overall performance of the meet. In less than 90 minutes, Schmidt captured the 880 (2:26.5), the two-mile (12:42) and the mile (5:44.6).

Oceana's talented sprinter Elaine Parker also had a fine afternoon. Parker took the 100-yard dash in 11.1 and won the 220 in 25.6.

Kim Costello of El Camino also had double victories with a 15.2 in the 110 low hurdles and a 16-8 in the long jump.

Terra Nova's Debbie Arana won the high jump with a 5-0 leap.

Two Women Win Awards

Two San Mateo County women were among the 10 Bay Area residents cited at a luncheon earlier this month for their exceptional work as volunteers.

Recipients of San Francisco Bay Area Volunteer Activist Awards included Mary Beauvais, who maintains the Pacifica Red Cross office on a 24-hour basis, and Marianne Arnstein, whose 10 years on the San Mateo County Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Commission have included implementation of relevant research projects and innovative programs.

Mary Beauvais, a 20-year volunteer, has converted the back bedroom of her home into an office from which she coordinates all the Red Cross activity in her area. As a disaster action team member, she is called upon to respond at all hours of the day and night to extend Red Cross assistance to victims of fires and other disaster situations.

The Pacifica Center also has a language bank established by Mrs. Beauvais whose volunteers include a family who can speak five languages between them.

A career consultant at Oceana High School, Mrs. Beauvais also works as a career guidance associate at the school.

As a member of the San Mateo County Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Commission, Marianne Arnstein has been instrumental in helping implement a major study on drug and alcohol abuse by minors in the county. When she was chairman of the commission in 1969 she was directly responsible for establishing the first Youth Service Bureau in the county known as Pacifica Youth Service Bureau. It became a model program for the five other bureaus that have followed, and Mrs. Arnstein now sits on the advisory board of the Whole Earth Youth Service Bureau for the cities of Belmont and San Carlos.

Since the establishment of the youth service and other bureaus there have been considerably lower referrals made to the probation departments.

Mrs. Arnstein also is involved with the Stanford Medical Center Council, the Committee for Art at Stanford Board, and the San Mateo County Grand Jury.

The Volunteer Activist Awards, which were instituted a year ago, are sponsored by the five Bay Area Volunteer Bureaus / Voluntary Action Centers, Macy's and Germaine Montell Cosmetics Corp.

D.C. Sailor Back in Port

Navy Mess Management Specialist 1st Class Richard Minge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Cushen, of Forest Groves, Daly City, has returned from an extended deployment in the western Pacific. He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS England, homeported in San Diego. Minge joined the Navy in August 1968.

D.C. Airman To School

Airman Michael N. Guthrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Guthrie, 254 Westridge Dr., Daly City, has been selected for technical training at Sheppard AFB, Tex., in the Air Force aircraft maintenance field.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., and studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Guthrie is a 1975 graduate of Westmoor High School and attended College of San Mateo.

Sailor Back From Cruise

Navy Mess Management Specialist 1st Class Jose L. Abobo, son of Quinciano C. Abobo, 290 E. Market St., Daly City, has returned from an extended deployment in the western Pacific. He is serving as a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Jouett, homeported in San Diego.

This vessel was part of a seven-ship task group that participated in various training exercises with other Seventh Fleet Units and those of allied nations in the Sea of Japan, Philippine Sea and Indian Ocean. During their deployment, crewmembers visited several Far Eastern countries.

Home From Antarctica

Coast Guard Seaman Subistence Specialist Dennis A. Sims, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon F. Sims, 725 Bellevue Ave., Daly City, has returned from an extended deployment to McMurdo Station, Antarctica. He is serving as a crewmember aboard the Coast Guard cutter Glacier, homeported in Long Beach.

This deployment marked the 23rd consecutive year of civilian and military logistic support for "Operation Deep Freeze" research. Glacier provided logistic support for McMurdo Station, the main American base. A 1973 graduate of Serramonte High School, Sims joined the Coast Guard in January 1977.

Sonar Tech Visits Africa

Navy Sonar Technician 2nd Class Gary S. Kaufman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kaufman, 62 Como Ave., Daly City, recently visited the port of Djibouti in northeastern Africa. He is assigned to the guided missile cruiser USS Fox, homeported in San Diego.

This ship's Djibouti stop occurred during temporary assignment of the U.S. Middle East Force. While in port, Fox hosted a visit from that country's president, prime minister and other principal cabinet ministers. During the remainder of her deployment, Fox will be operating as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the western Pacific.

Art Works at D.C. Library

An exhibit of paintings on display at the Daly City Library Westlake Branch, 275 Southgate Ave., Daly City.

The work is by the students of Vicki Latorini's acrylic workshop and acrylic painting classes Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at Westmoor High School.

The show runs May 20 through May 30. There will be paintings for sale during the exhibit.

Mrs. Latorini will have a reception and tea May 20 at the library for the students, their families and friends, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Did Letter to Nephew in HEW Kill Jefferson School Funds?

A claim that the demolition of an elementary school principal has led to strings being pulled in Washington, D.C. to kill a $1.6 million federal education grant Wednesday left Jefferson Elementary School District trustees determined to settle the matter.

The revelation had come to the district staff Tuesday and was passed on to the board in an agenda heavy with personnel cuts for next school year and threats of potential massive layoffs and pay reductions if Proposition 13 passes in the June 6 state primary election.

The district's application for the $1.6 million Emergency School Aid Act grant, which it has received for several years, was rejected several weeks ago for various bureaucratic reasons, Superintendent Pete Hansen said.

But Tuesday, while Hansen was out of the office, Dr. John Trompeter, assistant superintendent of administrative services, was visited by Julius Castelan, head of the Bay Area Regional Program of the Padres Unidos for Quality Education, who gave him a letter, which Castelan said was responsible for denial of the ESAA grant.

The letter, dated March 27, was to Jesse Jordan, chief of the Bureau of Elementary and Secondary Education of the HEW Office of Education in Washington. Castelan said his nephew is Jordan's assistant and knew about the letter.

In the letter, Castelan and Alicia Gonzales, president of the San Mateo County Mexican-American Unity Council, charged the JESD with "forcing" the resignation of Mrs. Elvina DeGarmo, the principal of George Washington School, and replacing her with "an Anglo male, with less experience and educational qualifications."

The letter said also that the district hasn't hired the necessary Latin-heritage teachers and administrators needed to serve minorities, will close two schools next year which serve the minority community and has no minority representation on the Board of Trustees.

The writers of the letter requested an investigation in the district.

The board, at President Dorothy Adams' suggestion, concurred in asking for the investigation and was to consult with the district's legal counsel today.

"This money in the ESAA grant would do all those things they want," Hansen said after the meeting Wednesday, indicating he was baffled at this particular tactic.

Trustee David M. Parker called the letter "plain blackmail." He added that if there is "political clout" being used, "it's too bad they're taking away from the bilingual children of the district. He (Castelan) should stop and think about what he's doing in relation he may or may not have with a particular administrator."

Mrs. DeGarmo, a Mexican-American with a Ph.D., who the letter claimed "is the most recent recipient of discriminatory practice in this district," has not been reassigned to another post for next year, but likely will be given a teaching post.

Because of declining enrollment, the district previously had announced it would close Lincoln, Pershing and Crocker schools after this school year. Pershing and Crocker have large minority enrollments.

Mrs. DeGarmo is to be replaced at Washington by Carl Pileri, presently principal of Pershing, in effect "bumping" Mrs. DeGarmo because of seniority, according to district leaders.

The ESAA grants in past years, though plagued with administrative problems within the district, have paid for personnel and programs designed to help minority children.

Other transfers of principals for next year involve moving Thomas Natano from Lincoln to Roosevelt, Marilyn Marino from Roosevelt to Garden Village and Eleanor Zenovich from Garden Village to Olympia.

A group of parents protested to the board about Mrs. Zenovich's transfer, saying the quality of education "has improved vastly" in her four years there.

There will be 79 fewer teachers next fall in the district. The board voted to cut 79.88 full-time positions from the payroll because of falling enrollments after Hansen read a decision from Administrative Law Judge Rudolf H. Michaels, who found after an April hearing that the district had complied with the law on proper notices for those to be dismissed as of June 30, and that its criteria on seniority and special qualifications were proper.

Hansen also offered a "district contingency plan," in case voters pass Proposition 13, the Jarvis-Gann Initiative, which he said would lop over $4 million from district revenues for the next fiscal year.

Terminal 'Lumper' Violence

Lumper operations at the South San Francisco produce terminal have been under investigation for some time, Detective Jack Rhodes of the South San Francisco Police Department said Wednesday.

Lumpers unload trucks for drivers at the produce terminal.

"They've been under investigation for some time, both by federal, state and local agencies," Rhodes said. He confirmed that the FBI, the IRS and the Interstate Commerce Commission are looking into the lumping operation.

Rhodes said there is a lot of unreported violence at the produce terminal, generally fights involving lumpers and truck drivers over the fees charged by the lumpers.

BART Directors OK New Service

The BART Board of Directors has endorsed a proposed specific service level plan for direct Richmond-Daly City service.

BART General Manager Frank C. Herringer, who presented the plan, said the schedule will call for Richmond-Daly City trains to operate weekdays on 15-minute intervals from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., after which time the system normally begins phasing into a two-route night service—Concord-Daly City and Richmond-Fremont, with trains operating at 20-minute intervals until midnight.

Herringer said this new direct (no transfer) service between Richmond and Daly City would begin approximately 30 days following approval by the California Public Utilities Commission of BART's application to lift current spacing restrictions of trains. Hearings on BART's application have been in progress since April 7 and are expected to continue for several more weeks.

The service level plan also calls for a continuation of present peak period transbay service from Concord and Fremont and 15-minute train intervals on all lines during mid-day travel hours.

Herringer said that this would be the initial service pattern for instituting direct Richmond-Daly City service and that it would be refined and adjusted as demand developed. He further stated that BART is moving toward being able to publish specific timetables for the mid-day service.

Dealing With Death Under Hospice Care

By MICHELLE CARTER

When you stop to think about it, doesn't make much sense to go to a hospital to die.

Hospitals are dedicated to curing people and caring for them during the curing process, and "it's very hard for a curing community to deal with death," according to Sandol Stoddard, a Tiburon housewife and writer who was a founding member of the Hospice of Marin in 1975.

The Hospice of Marin is one of 75 hospice teams now operating in America which are dedicated to helping people face death without pain and fear.

Ms. Stoddard, who always wears a silver crusader's cross hung on a strip of leather around her neck, has written a book called "The Hospice Movement: A Better Way of Caring for the Dying" (Stein and Day, $8.95).

"What really lit the fires under us was the work that pioneers like Dr. Cicely Saunders did in England at St. Christopher's Hospice. Americans began to observe what was going on there, and people came back with a passionate urgency to get on with the work here. It all really came to us from England," Ms. Stoddard said in a recent interview.

"But the preparation of the American mind for the hospice idea was done by Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross who presented dying as a natural thing to be honored instead of feared."

At the moment there is no physical facility known as the Hospice of Marin, but a comfortable, non-institutional in-patient building is part of the hospice's future plans. Right now, the hospice operates as an interdisciplinary team that provides support for the patient and his family and works to eliminate his pain while he remains at home.

At the moment, 25 percent of the terminal cancer patients in Marin County are under the care of the hospice which operates like an extended family to prop up the patient's family during what can be a period of extreme stress for them.

St. Christopher's Hospice in England led the way in eliminating pain in the terminal patient by developing a pain-killer known as "Brompton's mix." Because some of the drugs in the mixture cannot be used legally in the United States, the Hospice of Marin and others in this country have their own version called a "hospice mix" that Dr. William Lamers, executive director of the Hospice of Marin, calls "amazingly effective" and non-addictive.

It consists of morphine, alcohol and one of the phenothiazines in a water solution with cherry syrup to off-set the bitter taste. The proper use of the mix requires that it be administered in a prescribed dose around the clock.

"This is done to prevent pain from having the opportunity to build up again. It is also important in Dr. Lamers' system of medication that the patients themselves dispense and administer their medicine and keep their own 'pain charts,'" Ms. Stoddard writes.

"In a very short time, under hospice care, this becomes known as the 'comfort chart,' and throughout the process, it gives the patient a realistic sense of control over the situation."

Other techniques are available for the control of other symptoms, and the patient's ultimate comfort of the mind as well as the body can be achieved by surrounding him with friends and familiar things — pets, furniture and treasures.

Often the people who need the greatest help are the members of the families, Ms. Stoddard said. They often fear the unknown more acutely than the patient.

"People have so many fantasies about horrible deaths, but there's no need for it to be horrible once the pain is eliminated. . . . Once the family has seen this, they can go out and tell others."

But aiding a friend or family member through the "sweet death" can be emotionally draining. Families are under extreme stress, and the divorce rate among parents of dying children is "terrible."

So the hospice team has to minister to the family as well. Relief from the need for constant

SANDOL STODDARD

The author of "The Hospice Movement," Ms. Stoddard is a professional writer who has written 10 books for children and numerous articles of non-fiction on subjects ranging from religion to biography and psychology. The mother of four sons, she is the wife of William Ames Atchley, MD, clinical professor of medicine at the University of California, San Francisco.

care can be eased by allowing a patient to spend some time in an in-patient facility wherever they exist. Psychiatrists and therapists on the team teach them to deal honestly with their feelings.

It must be effective because "recently bereaved people often want to go into hospice work. This isn't good, though; they need time to work through their own grief first."

Ms. Stoddard sees the hospice movement as closely related to the crusade for 'death with dignity' and the popularity of 'living wills.'

"They all grew out of the same fears of dying a 'tube death' — an impersonal death attended only by machines."

"The hospice movement is really an alternative to euthanasia. If you're comfortable and have something to live for, you don't have to go off the bridge. You don't have to kill people to make them comfortable."

"I really wish all those people putting their energies into euthanasia would get busy in hospice work."

She points out that many hospital administrators are realizing that hospitals really aren't doing well by the dying patient ("One study I know of showed that nurses take twice as long to answer the call bell of an incurable patient.") and have instituted some measures to improve the situation.

Some hospitals offer an ombudsperson for the dying operated through the chaplaincy program in the hospital. St. Luke's Hospital in New York, she notes, has a hospice team operating within the hospital. "Anything is better than the way it has been."

Ms. Stoddard adds that insurance companies are changing their attitudes about paying for hospice care — which amounts to a small fraction of the usual cost of hospitalized care.

"Insurance companies are now willing to pay and they are working out a sensible program. Hospice care involves a very different kind of care (from that of traditional medicine.) As Dr. Saunders says, 'there's no parking meter by the bed.'"

Now that the hospice movement has become a respected method of terminal care, hospice teams are forming all over the country. A team is already operating in San Francisco, and, Ms. Stoddard reports, the whole Kaiser-Permanente Medical Foundation is "keenly interested" and a hospice team is forming now at the Kaiser Medical Center in Hayward.

However, Ms. Stoddard isn't aware of any hospice teams forming or operating in San Mateo County, and a check with the San Francisco Regional Cancer Foundation confirmed the absence of a local team.

Post Staffer Wins Award

Amphlett Newspapers reporter Terry Davenport received the California Teachers Association's John Swett Award Thursday night for her coverage of the Laguna Salada Union School District in Pacifica.

The annual award, named in honor of the CTA founder, is given to journalists chosen from among those nominated by teachers' associations belonging to the CTA.

Ms. Davenport was nominated for the award by the Laguna Salada Educational Association, which represents teachers in the Laguna Salada district.

A panel of practicing professionals from the print and broadcast media selected the winners.

Stories Ms. Davenport wrote which the judges considered included news coverage of teacher contract negotiations and of regular school board meetings, and features on an alcohol education program, implementation of the Serrano-Priest decision, a structured school campaign by parents, the educationally handicapped and the "Capt. Hydro" water rationing program that was taught in the district.
